

Hitchcock Design Group Launches Austin, Texas Office

Trent Rush

Hitchcock Design Group, a leading provider of planning and landscape architectural services in the Midwest, proudly announces the opening of its Austin, Texas office. Trent Rush, a long-time and highly regarded Austin landscape architect will lead the office and Hitchcock Design Group's expansion into this high-energy and culturally rich region.

"Trent shares Hitchcock Design Group's mission-driven passion for creating better places to live, work, play, learn and heal," says Rick Hitchcock, President, "and he has an outstanding regional reputation, which will allow us to better serve our existing land development clients who are investing in the Austin market. In addition, with Trent's extensive relationships and our specialized market expertise, we expect to forge lasting relationships with regional public and institutional clients, as well."

Trent joins the firm as a Principal and shareholder with over 20 years of professional experience and an exceptionally diverse portfolio. He has experience with large- and site-scale projects in higher education, real estate development (including senior living), healthcare, recreation and urban design. Trent's project leadership and landscape architectural design skills are widely recognized, and he is a registered landscape architect in Texas, serving clients throughout the state.
